
3 repeated seeds per task; correlated observations. No significance test or confidence intervals.
Each pair shares its backend; scores across backends are separate experiments.